

July 2008 – Construction Site Manager's Safety Certificate (SMSTS)

To further Drainology's Health and Safety at Work credentials, we are pleased to announce that Drainology's Operations Director, Keith Simson, has successfully completed 'The Site Management Safety Training Scheme for the Construction and Civil Engineering Industries' (SMSTS).

This five-day intensive course covers all areas of health and safety on site, meaning Keith has the correct knowledge to ensure all the work carried out by our staff adheres strictly to health and safety policies.

This award, together with our CSCS and CHAS accreditations, demonstrates Drainology's continued dedication to Health and Safety in the Workplace, making sure the work we carry out is safe for both our staff and customers alike.
